

For my first project I engaged in quite the ride concerning textures, glowing effects, and even some crazy geometries. Even more so, I took the time to add a water texture known as bit frost. As for the meaning of my sculpture, I wished to portray climate change through the portrayal of heat engulfing the elements of air and water which are the most affected today because of CO2 emissions.

On the following page are several angles of my work

