

Statement

My approach for this project was to display of how people take matters into our hand, or the state of our mind. Coming from various creative backgrounds, I used both monochromatic and warm/cool colors to counteract one another; the warm/cool colors to represent various state of mind, and monochromatic color to display emptiness. In addition, I experimented with sculpture juxtapositioning to create this abstract, yet aesthetically straightforward representation.