

Since I have recently visited Museum of Modern Arts in SF, for this project I wanted to create three modern sculptures. One of the sculptures was inspired by swans. 3 abstract swans represent families and friends, and how they are connected to each other. Swans are loyal animals and they usually mate for life, and I wanted to point out the importance of the loyalty between people.

The one in the middle was inspired by the nature. I like flowers, but I can't give enough care of them and they usually end up dying super fast. I also added blue color as a glass effect and this represents how fragile and gentle they are.

The one that was created with bunch of rings represents the complexity of life. While representing beauty of life with my other 2 sculptures, I wanted to create something that also represents the chaos that we have in our lives.
